Now, she sat astride a horse on an ancient island. She was watching boats being sunk by a magical force. Next to her, sat a man she loved, even if he wasn't a human.

She was waiting for him to come to her; she knew he would. She loved him with all of her heart, and he loved her. There was no way that their story could end so soon.

She needed him in her life; she couldn't become a vampire without him by her side. She would destroy them all if it meant that she couldn't have the man that she loved.

He was able to save her; she could see him as the poison left her. He saved her from the pain, but could he save her from the heartache? Would she be able to make the decisions needed to save her life and those of the others?

He promised her that he would love her forever, and she knew it was true. She would love him until they both died, even if it was sooner rather than rather.

The secret she was keeping was going to change everything, but somehow, people already knew. As she fought for her life and those that depended on her, she questioned her own resolve. The people who had taken her had no souls.

They had killed thousands, what was one more. Would she be able to survive for herself and the baby she was carrying?

Please be aware that this is a romance short. Shorter fiction is a fun and quick read, not a full-length novel. The book appears longer than it is due to the bonus Books Collection.
