In Fine Style, The Dancehall Art of Wilfred Limonious Christopher Bateman

From the early 1980s until his death in 1999, Jamaican illustrator Wilfred Limonious created more than 150 reggae and dancehall album jackets. With crazy cartoon characters and wacky hand-drawn typography, his album covers have become synonymous with the colourful, humorous attitude of early dancehall music. In In Fine Style: The Dancehall Art Of Wilfred Limonious provides a long-overdue look at the art and career of one of reggae music's most prolific yet unheralded designers, featuring many of his classic album jackets as well as a largely unknown body of work from outside of the reggae world. Includes never-before-seen pieces, photographs and ephemera.
